The Global Investment Leaders Club

The Global Investment Leaders Club is the only club in the world for the leaders of the global investment industry, which provides instant contact with any decision-maker in the world via phone, video conference or a personal meeting.

The club personally introduces and recommends each club member to another before contact or a meeting.

Who is it for?

For the heads of investment companies, family offices, funds, banks, large investors, as well as for the owners of large businesses and holdings.

The club's high-end business network includes the heads of companies from all over the world, therefore it benefits any decision-maker in any country.

What is it designed for?

Establishing and expanding direct business relationships with other leaders and decision-makers of different companies in all regions in the world.

Having an opportunity to expand essential business connections without tiring, expensive and dangerous business trips.

Having unlimited business opportunities, access to information, resources, markets, suppliers and customers thanks to the most effective high-end individual networking of the Global Investment Leaders Club.

How does it work?

Club members establish and manage their contacts through the most innovative high-level networking app 'Connecting Leaders'.

Upon request of club members, we provide contact with other club members by organizing instant telephone calls, video conferences, virtual summits, as well as opportunity to meet at the closed gatherings for club members in different countries of the world.

Not only will we connect you, but we'll also introduce you, recommend and arrange direct contact with chosen decision-makers.

Who are the members of the Global Investment Leaders Club today?

More than 10,000 heads of the world's largest investment companies, holdings, banks, family offices, including Middle Eastern and European Royal family offices.

Why should I join now?

Today, the spread of coronavirus worldwide has made it impossible to hold or attend physical forums, conferences, summits and meetings.

At the date, business trips became restricted and dangerous. Company leaders have drastically reduced (and some have completely limited) their participation in business events, trips and meetings.

At the same time, companies are facing investment shortage, industrial enterprises are losing suppliers and buyers, and all companies are in a need of new business connections.

Now, as never before, the top management of companies needs to expand and strengthen connections among themselves. Today, it can be done only with the Global Investment Leaders Club in a quick, comfortable and safe manner.

Your participation in the club today is a real chance for the prosperity of your company tomorrow.

Instant direct contact between decision-makers: phone, WhatsApp, e-mail etc.

Full information in the profiles of the club members allows you to accurately find right decision-makers to connect with. It takes just one click to establish contact with them.

The internal culture based on the trust of the participants to each other and the long-standing traditions of the club create friendly and trustworthy bonds between club members, even if they have not been acquainted before.

Instant direct contact: one-to-one video conferences.

Establishing contact between company heads requires respect and care.

Club members can easily establish good relationships with each other without even having a personal physical meeting. In order to do this, a video conference or a phone call can be organized between the heads of companies.

Club assistants organize video conferences upon request of the club members, recommend and introduce members to each other.

Events: virtual meeting sessions and gatherings for the Club members.

At the very heart of the Global Investment Leaders Club are personal meetings between companies' leaders.

To make these meetings result in an expansion of useful strategic contacts, we personally introduce members to each other, give our recommendations and provide a comfortable place for private meetings during the gatherings of the Club members.

To discuss important issues and hold thematic one-to-one meetings is also possible during virtual meeting sessions for the club members, which are dedicated to particular topics, industries or interests of participants.

Club members have a schedule of personal meetings in advance and hold meetings with interesting participants at the pre-agreed time.
